

Calvo Tenorio technology policies help thousands of students

A release from the Governor's Office • Contact Phill Leon Guerrero at 929-7467 or Phillip.Leonguerrero@Guam.gov

“We are living in the most innovative age in our history, so our students should be able to receive the benefit of all the technologies out there. Ray, Christine, Notch, and I all have a passion to give our children the tools they need to compete against the best in the world – and win. We know our students are the best—they just need to be given the chance to succeed. Whether it’s a computer for a student to use after school, or a laptop to type their reports, or an iPad that helps children communicate with the world, these tools will prepare the next generation of Guam to sail into a bright future beyond our imagination. The Calvo Tenorio team knows that by giving our community access to technology, we’re helping them achieve their dreams.” – Governor Eddie Baza Calvo

The Calvo Tenorio administration is helping thousands of students learn with laptops, computers, and assistive technology. Recently, Governor Calvo, Lt. Governor Tenorio, and First Lady Christine Calvo used their programs to help students throughout the island. This wrap-around approach granting access to these technologies represent the administration's commitment to giving our children the tools they need to succeed in the future.

Students and seniors in Asan-Maina have computers to use for homework, research, and word-processing. This past week, Comps-for-Kids, an initiative from Lt. Governor Tenorio, donated two computers for Mayor Joanna Blas' new youth, senior, & headstart resource center.

The resource center will be used by students who need a quiet place to do their homework after or before school, or to access the internet for their research projects. It will also be used by manamko' who want to learn how to use a computer.
