Jayne,

I sincerely want to meet you and assure you that none of what I will talk about this involves anything related to the church. I want to share the plans we have to help women and children through a new foundation. I recognize it can do its purpose alone, but I feel the outreach will be of greater significance with some form of public-private partnerships.

Of course you can decide not to have intetest and I respect that. But just feel it is reasonable to at least hear about it.

If you are willing, any time next week Tuesday on I am willing to come share this concept with you either at your office, over lunch or coffee.

I am not your enemy Jayne. You can always continue with the path in life you believe relative to abortions while simultaneously helping women and children in ways that has nothing to do with abortion.

Will you meet me?
