Hi Troy,

As requested, please see attached Purchase Order. Unlike previous typhoons, local media outlets were unable to maintain operations due to damaged or missing antennas, lack of power, and limited telecommunications. Despite the Joint Information Center's best efforts to collect and disseminate information before, during, and after Typhoon Mawar's landfall, the audience was limited to those with access to Whatsapp and other social media platforms. Recognizing that radio partners were the quickest to return to broadcast, it was evident a radio talk show would increase reach and provide for live interviews and calls from the public.

A request for quotes was sent out on May 31, 2023. Only three stations were operational at this time. Quotes were received from Choice Broadcasting, Joy FM, and Sorensen Media Group.

Note, there are efforts to amend this PO, due to the changing situation. In the attached message from Communications Director Krystal Paco-San Agustin dated June 6, 2023, she requests an amendment to the PO in order to leverage more available platforms and increase reach for messaging.

Let me know if there is anything else needed. Thank you.

V/r,
Jenna

Marie:

As discussed, with an increase in radio stations coming back online this past week, please adjust the Purchase Order for Sorenson Media from two weeks to one week. The remaining balance should be used for radio spots on other live stations and diversified platforms to increase reach.

Thank you.

Hafa Adai Phill, please note the following responses to your questions:

- Are the shows and content part of a specific initiative of the government to improve communication of aid programs and advisories? If so, what was the thinking behind leveraging advertising dollars to make this happen?
 - o The show and its messaging are in direct response to Typhoon Mawar disaster response and recovery. Unlike previous typhoons, local media outlets were unable to maintain operations due to damaged or missing antennas, lack of power, and limited telecommunications. Despite the Joint Information Center's best efforts to collect and disseminate information before, during, and after Typhoon Mawar's landfall, the audience was limited to those with access to Whatsapp and other social media platforms. Recognizing that radio partners were the quickest to return to broadcast, it was evident a radio talk show would increase reach and provide for live interviews and calls from the public.

A request for quotes was sent out on May 31, 2023. Only three stations were operational at this time. Quotes were received from Choice Broadcasting, Joy FM, and Sorensen Media Group.

- How much has been spent on the Sorensen PO so far?
 - o I will get back to you on this.
- How much is the total budget for this information campaign?
 - o Please see the Purchase Order. Note, there are efforts to amend this PO, due to the changing situation. In the attached message from Communications Director Krystal Paco-San Agustin dated June 6, 2023, she requests an amendment to the PO in order to leverage more available platforms and increase reach for messaging.
- Will the funds be reimbursed by FEMA or another federal agency?
 - o Reimbursement is not determined by GHS/OCD. Our office is not at the stage in the response where we are working on reimbursement. However, all documents are being filed properly, including this Purchase Order, in the event there is an opportunity to include as a request for reimbursement. A list of reimbursable expenses may be found in the FEMA Public Assistance Program Policy Guide Version 4.
- Are government workers signing leave for the time they are guest hosting? For instance, Jayne (and maybe Carlotta) hosted both the morning and afternoon shows, which is on during 6 of the 8 of GovGuam's operational hours.

(Response to be attributed to Krystal Paco-San Agustin): None of the show hosts were required to sign leave. All show hosts were participating in the dissemination of critical public information in support of Typhoon Mawar disaster response and recovery efforts.

Let me know if there is anything else needed. Thank you.

V/r,
Jenna

Marie:

As discussed, with an increase in radio stations coming back online this past week, please adjust the Purchase Order for Sorenson Media from two weeks to one week. The remaining balance should be used for radio spots on other live stations and diversified platforms to increase reach.

Thank you.

Apologies for the back and forth, I received guidance that we will be sending a cancelation now. It was a misunderstanding on my part, but we need 2 x 2-hour spots, morning and afternoon.

Thank you though, for all the coordination and willingness to support!
